Compliance

“ Great online course. Very comprehensive and the links worked well. We need to do more training with this level of quality. ”

What we do

Nelson Croom works with professional services firms and companies to create compliance programmes that change behaviour and ensure compliance with the regulator's requirements. Our combination of effective learning and robust assessment ensures people achieve the required level of competence quickly and effectively, and provides the organisation with reports to demonstrate compliance.

Demonstrating

Our programmes

Our programmes range from authoritative learning in topics such as anti-money laundering and competition legislation to introductory courses in equality and diversity, data protection and health and safety.

Creating competitive advantage

For the professional services firms we work with, Nelson Croom's online compliance training solutions provide a competitive advantage. We help our clients extend their reach; with people geographically dispersed and new joiners starting all the time, you can train large numbers of people successfully, quickly and at the fraction of the cost of traditional face-to-face delivery.

“ I liked the structured use of real life examples and case studies. In my career, I have completed similar training before. This by far was the most informative and thought provoking online training course I have completed. ”

Keeping it up-to-date

With Nelson Croom's content management tools you can ensure that your learners always have access to the most up-to-date information. Changes in legislation can be incorporated quickly and cost-effectively.

Monitoring and motivating learners

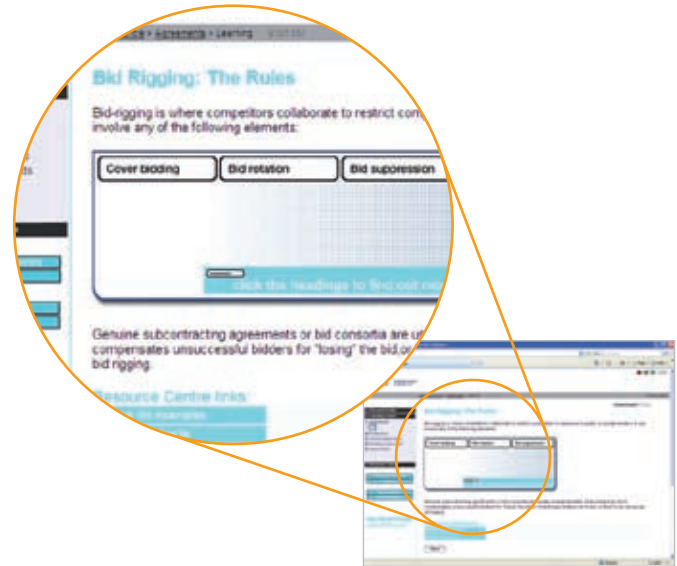

Powerful integrated management tools enable you and your clients to manage attendance and check that learners have reached an appropriate level of understanding. At the click of a button, check to see who has accessed and completed the course and chase those that haven't. Communication tools are built in so that you can email users to inform them of updates and invite them to refresh their training.

Providing evidence

Nelson Croom's hosted online technology includes all the reports you need to demonstrate that your users have been trained adequately and reached the desired standard.

“ I was reluctant to take the course, because it seemed like a waste of time but overall I enjoyed the course, it made it easy to absorb the knowledge. ”

“ The quiz was very interesting and helps to memorize the most important things about anti-money laundering. ”
